Re: Case No. 2022-094

Dear Mr. Dillman:

Thank you for the additional information you provided to us, which was received in our office on March 17, 2022.

The Ethics Commission's jurisdiction is invoked when a public official or public employee has used their official position or office to obtain personal gain for themselves, a family member, or a business with which they are associated or there was some intent to corruptly influence a public official or public employee. The Commission is only authorized to investigate a complaint that on its face alleges facts which if true, would constitute a violation of the Ethics Act.

A review of the information you provided shows activity that is outside the Ethics Commission's statute of limitations of four (4) years; therefore, we have determined that there is no evidence on the face of the complaint that would constitute a violation of the Ethics Act. Because our jurisdiction is not invoked, we are closing our file in this matter.

Sincerely,

/s/ Brian H. Paterson, Jr.
